UNCLE SAM PAYS FOR TWO DEATHS

Parents Of Boys Killed By Oklahoma Officials Awarded $15,000 Each.

The tragic slaying of Emilio Cortez Rubio and Manuel Gomez at Ardmore, Oklahoma, last June 8, was deplored Tuesday by the house foreign affairs committee which unanimously voted $15,000 be paid to each of their families.

Action followed an executive session at which Wilbur J. Carr, assistant secretary of state, and Hershel Johnson, chief of the Mexican division of the state department, told of the unfortunate shooting of the two Mexican youths by police.

The tragic slaying had local connections.

The two Mexican youths who were killed were riding with a third companion in one machine while in a second machine were Fernando and Guillermo Ortiz Rubio, sons of the former president of Mexico, who attended Gettysburg academy.

The five Mexican boys left St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kansas, upon the completion of their school year, bound for Mexico where they planned to spend their vacation. The two Rubio boys who attended academy here planned to leave the party and come to Gettysburg.

The Rubio boys were leading the second car and were not aware of the clash with Oklahoma officials their companions were experiencing. When the Rubio boys reached the destination where the two parties were to separate, the former coming

Youth Terrorizes House At Point of Gun Tuesday

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP).—Loaded revolver in hand, a youthful zealot stood in the house gallery Tuesday and terrorized a crowded chamber until safely disarmed through the calm approach of one of its members.

Bullets were not the only resource in his determination to deliver a speech to the house. After he had been identified as Marlin R. M. Kemmerer, of Allentown, Pennsylvania, police found two sticks of dynamite in rooms he occupied here.

Before the 25-year-old department store worker was taken to Gallinger hospital for mental observation, he told police questioners his first intention had been to speak from the gallery and then blow himself up with the dynamite. But for fear of hurting someone else he decided to hold the house at the point of his pistol while speaking.

Had Kemmerer succeeded, not many members would have been there to hear him. Just a few minutes after a page boy first shouted "Look out for the man with the gun" a majority had deserted the floor for the more protected cloakrooms.

Kemmerer chose the hour of 4 o'clock to make his attempted speech. Pale but determined, he arose in the gallery to the left of the speaker's dais, then occupied by Representative McMillan, democrat, South Carolina. More than a hundred representatives were filing past tellers taking a vote.

Suddenly there was a rush for the gallery doors as those about Kemmerer sought safety. Members looked up, startled. Kemmerer threw one leg over the gallery railing, waving the .38 calibre firearm with sweeping gestures.

"I want the floor for a few minutes," he shouted.

At about the same time the page boy shouted his warning, members abandoned the vote and some of their dignity and started for the exits.

McMillan remained in the chair rapping for order. Then Representative Maas, republican, Minnesota, who saw air service during the war, walked over to a spot directely under Kemmerer.

Maas Calls for His Gun

"I want the floor," Kemmerer was saying.

"All right, son," Maas told the excited disturber. "But before you get the floor just give me the gun."

Kemmerer dropped the gun to Maas. A moment later Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, who had rushed from the floor to the gallery as soon as Kemmerer stood up, reached his side. Police were on his heels and Kemmerer was taken to headquarters for questioning.

SCOUTS NEED SMALL AMOUNT

Large Crowd At Benefit Play Thursday Night Will Meet Deficit.

In an effort to cooperate with officials in charge of the Gettysburg and Adams county Boy Scouts to meet a small deficit in this year's expenses the Gettysburg Dramatic club, with the assistance of several college players, will present "Applesauce," a three-act comedy, in the Eddie Plank gymnasium, Thursday evening.

All the proceeds of the performance will be turned over to the Boy Scouts.

Gettysburg and Adams county are united in the area comprising York and Adams county. York city is assessed $12,000, Hanover is assessed $2,000 and Gettysburg and Adams county $1,000. A small deficit exists to complete the remainder of the present year and the benefit play is expected to attract an audience sufficiently large to meet the deficit.

Clubs Help Move

Gettysburg has been sponsoring the Boy Scout movement for two years. In the first two years the Rotary and Lions' clubs and the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce have financed the project. In previous years the proceeds of the college indoor circus was turned over to the scouts. However, the indoor circus was discontinued last year.

Tomorrow's performance can net the expected amount if local friends of the Boy Scouts patronize the benefit play, Dean W. E. Tilberg, chairman of the local scout committee, said this morning.

The local scouts pay no salaries and not any of the money is used for any other purpose than the Boy Scouts, Doctor Tilberg said.

The performance will start at 8:15 o'clock.

The Gettysburg high school orchestra will furnish music during the intermissions and delegations from York and Hanover have arranged to attend the performance.

22 Kiddies Have Big Time at Phi Gam Party

Twenty-two boys and girls of girls of Gettysburg, kiddies who may be deprived of Christmas luxuries in their own homes, took possession of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity house, Tuesday night, and romped and played with toys and knick-knacks and ate candy, ice cream and fruit to their hearts' content.

It was the 1932 Christmas party for needy youngsters, sponsored by the fraternity in the spacious frat home on the college campus.

The youngsters scuffed through the large fraternity house, tinkering with the radio, pounding the piano keys, playing the victrola and in many ohter respects, "making themselves perfectly at home."

The 29 members of the fraternity joined in the frolic. They had almost as much fun as the youngsters. They welcomed the group as they arrived at the frat house at 7 o'clock. The youngsters were taken into the dining room and fed generous portions of cake and ice cream.

Table manners were discarded. Table etiquette was brushed aside and the "kids" sang and made merry at the table.

Then to a large decorated Christmas tree the youngsters were escorted by Albert Ott, in the makeup of Santa Claus, who handed out toys to the youngsters.

All over the large fraternity house the youngsters frolicked and rolled. They "took possession" of the entire home and the fraternity brothers "let them run wild."

For one hour and a half the 22 kiddies enjoyed the merriest Christmas of their young lives. It matters not to them whether another Santa climbs down their chimney on December 25, they've had a big Christmas time.

Each youngster was presented with a bag of nuts, oranges, apples and candies when the party disbanded at 8 o'clock.

During the evening Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college; Dean W. E. Tilberg, Dr. Thomas L. Cline and Dr. G. C. Bassett, joined the merrymakers.

The committee in chrage of the affair consisted of Robert Morrill, chairman; Roger DeVries, Robert Nix, Earl Barret and Albert Bell.

Town merchants who donated sweets to the party included: Stallsmith's news stand drug store, Shuman's Hanover Steam bakery, The Sweetland, Gettysburg Ice and Storage company, Reuning's bakery and the Romaine Miller candy shop.

NEW "RACKET" IS WORKED ON MERCHANT HERE

Stranger Seeks Apartment And Cashes Bad Check As Deposit.

LOSS ONLY $8.50; POLICE ON TRAIL

A new "racket" for obtaining money under false pretenses and with "rubber" checks was worked successfully this week on a local merchant who reported the incident to state police, but who, for obvious reasons, asked that his name be withheld.

The story of the "racket" as related by state police follows:

On Monday, a man who said he was Lloyd Witmer, of Steelton, called upon a local merchant, who is also owner of an apartment house, and asked if he could rent an apartment.

Cashes Bad Check

The merchant eagerly consented to show the stranger his apartments and the man, who said his name was Witmer, agreed to lease one of them.

The stranger then offered to pay a deposit of $10 on the first month's rent, and gave the merchant a check, drawn on a Steelton bank for $18.50. The merchant cashed the check, giving the stranger $8.50.

Later the check was returned, marked "No account," and the merchant knew he had been flimflammed.

According to the merchant, Witmer said he was employed by the telephone company, but C. A. Bixler, local manager for the United telephone company, said he knew of no one by that name working for the utility company.

Witmer also is said to have made arrangements with Charles S. Mumper, local drayman, to move his furniture to Gettysburg, but the stranger did not have an opportunity to work his bad check game on Mr. Mumper.

According to state police, a man answering Witmer's description is wanted in Carlisle for working the same "racket."

DAYHOFF GIVEN 18 MONTHS AND FINE OF $200

Judge Atlee Ignores Letters, Denounces Local Man In Court.

POLICE OFFICER PLEADS GUILTY

Letters from residents of Gettysburg attesting the character of Raymond Dayhoff, 28, Steinwehr avenue, meant little to Judge B. C. Atlee in court at Lancaster, Tuesday afternoon, when the court sentenced the former Gettysburg special police officer to serve 18 months in the Lancaster county jail and ordered him to pay a fine of $200.

Dayhoff went before the court on a plea of guilty to a charge of operating a car while under the influence of liquor, relying on letters from residents of Gettysburg for expected leniency.

Denounces Dayhoff

After reading several of the letters, Judge Atlee remarked:

"Evidently you have been fooling those people over there."

Judge Atlee then added a scatching denunciation of Dayhoff by branding him "one of the most flagrant violators of the law that I have ever seen."

Dayhoff pleaded that he was the father of five children but Judge Atlee reminded the defendant that he was taking a woman, not his wife, on a midnight joy ride when the mishap occurred for which the Gettysburg man was arrested.

According to commonwealth testimony presented to the Lancaster judge before Dayhoff was sentenced, the Gettysburg man was driving the car of Justice of the Peace Neil W. Gibson, of Gettysburg, on the early morning of October 5 when the machine struck the parked car of Mrs. Anna Sheppard, of Lancaster, injuring the latter seriously. She was removed to the Lancaster hospital in a serious condition. Mrs. Sheppard is now able to be about on crutches.

Hits Second Car

After running into Mrs. Sheppard's car, Dayhoff is alleged to have struck another parked car owned by the Russell Sales company, of Lancaster.

Dayhoff's "lady friend" was in the machine when it struck Mrs. Sheppard's car, but she left the car before the Gettysburg man was arrested.

Dayhoff was committed to the Lancaster county jail, but later was released under $1,000 bail.

Edward Watson, also of Biglerville, also held for questioning, remaind in custody at the jail.

MILLS TELLS OF BEER REVENUE

Says It Will Yield About $125,000,000, Not Enough To Balance Budget.

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP).—Secretary Mills gave the house ways and means committee today an estimate of the revenue a beer bill might bring in but left it to draw its own conclusions as to whether the president would give the signature that would start beer to flowing.

The secretary of the treasury said legalization of beer would not produce enough revenue by itself to balance the budget. He estimated it would bring in between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 a year. The beer provisions of the Collier bill were described as practicable of administration—the wine section "impossible."

Mills urged a non-partisan program to balance the budget by the adoption of a general manufacturers' sales tax.

Questioning the secretary about the beer bill Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the committee ranking democrat, asked:

"Will President Hoover sign this bill?"

"Oh, Mr. Rainey," replied Mills with a shrug, "you know no one speaks for the president."

"Do I understand that the administration favors the bill?" pursued Rainey.

"I am not here to give the administration's attitude. I am here only to discuss the revenue features of the legislation."

FARM PROGRAM IS SUBMITTED

Leaders Of Two Organizations Present New Proposals To House Committee.

Washington, Dec. 14 AP) — A unanimous agreement on fundamental farm relief principles closely approximating the domestic allotment bill prepared by Chairman Jones was submitted to the house agriculture committee today by spokesmen for national farm and commodity organizations.

The agreement was outlined to the committee by Frederick Lee, attorney for the farm leaders.

Lee named three major principles on which the farm group desire legislation to be founded.

They were:

That the legislation in question should be administered by the department of agriculture.

That is should cover four basic commodities, wheat, cotton, tobacco and hogs.

That the legislation should be framed to the end of giving agricultural commodities their pre-war parity with other commodities, that is the same purchasing power as agricultural commodities enjoyed between 1909 and 1914.

65 HOUSE SEATS FOR DEMOCRATS

Party Holds Largest Number Of Votes In Many Years In This State.

Harrisburg, Dec. 14.—The total number of democratic members of the house of representatives was finally fixed at sixty-five Tuesday, the largest number the party has had in many years.

The fact that many candidates at last month's election had republican and democratic nominations as well as the nominations of independent parties caused the official compilers at the capital some difficulties.

For a time it looked as if the democrats had gained one additional member, for Edgar A. Schrope, of Hegins, second legislative district of Schuylkill county, who had been listed as a republican, notified the resident clerk of the house that he is a democrat. But a later mail brought word from Dan E. Dunmire, Greensburg, elected to the house in the third legislative district of Westmoreland, that he is a republican and should not be counted as a democrat.

Senate Librarian Herman P. Miller and Resident Clerk Burgner Tuesday issued the first legislative directory for the new session of the legislature. In addition to the sixty-five democrats, the 1933 house will consist of 139 republicans, two socialists, one independent and there will be one vacancy. The vacancy is owing to the fact that while Thomas J. Brown, Lancaster, died a few days before the election, the electors of his district voted in sufficient number to re-elect him.

In the senate there will be forty-three republicans and seven democrats.

HERRIOT AND CABINET QUIT

Chamber Refuses To Pay U. S. Debt; Rome Sends Italy's Payment.

Paris, Dec. 14 (AP).—Premier Edouard Herriot and his cabinet resigned today after the chamber of deputies postponed the payment of less than $20,000,000 interest due the United States tomorrow.

The chamber decided to defer the debt payment until an international debt conference can be held. An overwhelming 380 to 50 vote approved the action. The premier's plan for payment with reservation was defeated shortly before by a vote of 402 to 187.

Because of this vote the Herriot cabinet submitted its resignation. Deferment of the payment was proposed by the chamber foreign affairs and finance committees over the premier's protest. The action of the chamber was interpreted in lobbies as directed against the attitude of the American government on the debt issue rather than against the radical socialist party leader who has been head of the government for the last six months.

The 402 deputies who voted out the government included men of all parties.

The defeat of the Herriot government precipitated a situation calling into question the whole system of debts and war deparation.

Rome, Dec. 14 (AP).—Announcement was made today that Italy has paid the $1,245,437 interest installment due tomorrow on the American debt.

Gotham Police Killed On Eve Of A Citation

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Patrolman George L. Gerhard, 31, was fatally wounded by three gunmen whom he surprised while holding up a cordial shop in upper Manhattan early today.

Two other patrolmen, who engaged in a running gun fight through crowded Amsterdam avenue with the robbers when they attempted to escape, were slightly wounded when they brought one of the trio down with a bullet in the chest and captured another. The third escaped.

Gerhard, who died in Roosevelt hospital with seven slugs in his body, was to have appeared tomorrow before the honor board of the police department for commendation for capturing seven gunmen several months ago.

PLACE MANY IN JOBS

The fourteen district offices of the state bureau of employment placed a total of 5772 persons in jobs last month. This is a larger number of placements than has been made in any single month of 1930, 1931 or 1932.

In addition, 6359 workers were sent from the fourteen state employment offices on work relief projects.

HEAVY DETAILS GUARD CAPITOL

Rank And File Veterans Seek To Present Petition To Congress Today.

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP).—Heavy details of city police were sent to the white house and capitol today and reserves held in readiness at precinct stations after the so-called rank and file veterans announced their intention of sending "a committee" to congress.

Automobile parking was forbidden in the broad plaza in front of the capitol.

At the office of Speaker Garner it was said no request had been made for permission to present a petition. Early in the day the rank and file veterans, and outgrowth of the radical wing of the bonus army evicted from the capital July 28 designed "a committee" of 25 to appear before congress. Later this number was increased to 50.

The veterans' demands include immediate cash payment of the bonus, steps to prevent cut of disability allowances, denunciation of the use of troops in evicting the bonus army and "a fitting mass tribute" to the two bonus marchers killed by police during the eviction but before the army was called out.

The capital and its broad grounds rapidly took on the appearance of an armed camp. Several hundred police took up stations on the plaza fronting the east entrance and at every door.

G. O. P. ELECTORS TO VOTE JAN. 4

Unimportant Balloting Takes Place In Harrisburg; G. W. Koser For Adams.

Not that it means anything but for your information, the Pennsylvania members of the electoral college will meet in Harrisburg Wednesday, January 4.

At that meeting the thirty-six republican "students" of the college will cast thirty-six votes for the re-election of President Hoover and "graduate."

Because of the large number of electoral votes which will be cast in other branches of the college in other states for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Pennsylvania's thirty-six votes will be unimportant.

The Pennsylvania electors are: G. W. Koser, of Biglerville, for Adams county; W. Kirkland Wier, Mary A. Babcock, Raymond MacNeille, John M. Marquess,, John R. K. Scott, John F. Habermehl, Stanley H. Hart, Eugene V. Alessandroni, J. Hampton Moore, Albert D. McDade, Morris C. Bastian, Herbert Ash, Katherine M. Fuller, F. M. Kirby, Donald K. Glover, John E. Livingood, Edward D. Katz, Irvin W. Hold Salesman For Man's Murder

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Joseph Thomas Barry, 43, a bond salesman, was held by police today in connection with the fatal shooting of Israel Seigel, 28, who died last night from a bullet wound in his brain.

Seigel was shot yesterday afternoon as he sat in a truck in the rear of a grocery store operated by his brother, Benjamin. Several hours later, police said, Barry surrendered. Barry refused to make a statement, but police said they were certain the shooting was the culmination of a triangular love affair.

Bream-Coached Bullet Cagers Seek Second League Pennant

Hen Bream's Orange and Blue dribblers will start defending their Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Basketball league championship after the Christmas holidays. Five lettermen from last year's championship aggregation are battling to retain their varsity berths this year.

The opening tilt, a non-league contest, is with Princeton, at Princeton, New Jersey. The first league battle will be with Muhlenberg on the local floor. Then will follow clashes with Albright, Lebanon Valley, Mt. St. Mary's, Drexel, Dickinson, Ursinus, F. and M., doubling with the league members and closing with Dickinson on the local floor March 10.

If the Bullets can cop the championship of the league this year they will have a two-thirds claim for permanent possession of the large trophy now in possession of the Bream-coached aggregation.

Drexel, Albright and Lebanon Valley loom as the most potent contenders for the league crown and the Bullets will have to do some tall stepping to overcome the onslaughts of these clubs. All three have strengthened their outfits considerably this year.

The lettermen of last year's pennant-winning aggregation are: Captain Alf. Jones, Olkewicz, Howard, Dracha and Kitzmiller, the latter a product of Gettysburg and son of County Treasurer and Mrs. Blaine Kitzmiller.

McMillen, Houghton, Armento, Enders, Eby and Gilbert are also seeking berths this year. They all saw some action last season and are making strong bids for the club this season.

Noel Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Flynn, Baltimore, who transfered to Gettysburg from Catholic university last season, will be eligible for the club this season and the rangy Gettysburgian is making a strong fight for a regular post.

From last year's freshman club comes such contenders for first string honors as: MacMillen, of Atlantic City and Wenonah; Tony Kosma, of Berwick and Wenonah; Dannie McGinnis, of Lancaster; Sam Messenger, of Kingston, New York; George Jones, brother of Captain Alf. Jones, of Mt. Carmel; Eckert, of Tyrone, and Zech, of Y. C. I. Bogar, Nye, Gaverick, Parkinson and Richard are also battling the regulars.

GIRLS CAPTURE EASY CONTEST

Arendtsville Boys Lose 24-14 Battle To Lemasters Cagers.

After the girls' team had doubled the score on their opponents to win, 46-23, the Arendtsville vocational school boys' team dropped a 24-14 decision to the Lemasters quintet at Lemasters Tuesday evening.

In spite of being a rough and tumble affair, few fouls were called in the boys' game. At half time Lemasters led, 16-10. Deardorff and McDannell put up the best games for the losers.

Miss Lillian McDannell kept up her scoring spree and scored 38 points to enable the Arendtsville girls to defeat the Lemasters sextet, 46-23. Lemasters put up a good game in the first half and trailed 20-14 at half time. Oyler and Kane put up good games for the Arendtsville tribe.

WARN AGAINST CUTTING TREES

Must Have Owner's Permission To Obtain Christmas Trees And Decorations.

Secretary Lewis E. Staley, of the department of forests and waters, has warned the public against cutting Christmas trees from the state forests or from privately-owned land without the permission of the owner.

It is unlawful in Pennsylvania to remove trees from land without the owner's consent. There is a penalty of $25 for each tree or part thereof removed. This law was passed in 1927 and since that time forest land owners have been alert to protect their holdings.

State forestry officials estimate that between one-half and a million trees are cut each year in Pennsylvania for Christmas decorations. The raising and harvesting of this crop is an important industry and provides a considerable revenue to Pennsylvania farmers and timberland owners.

Valuable young pines and spruce plantations have been extensively damaged by Christmas tree bootleggers, who working at night have been known to steal several truck loads of trees, each of which retail from 50 cents to $3.00. State forest rangers will be on the watch from now until Christmas to prevent Christmas tree bootleggers from stealing trees and shrubs in the state forests.

NEW BRIDGE TO HELP TOWN

Harrisburg, Dec. 14 (AP)—A new $600,000 bridge across the Susquehanna river at York Furnace was proposed today to the public service commission. The project encountered no opposition at a hearing at which the span was advocated to provide an additional route between Gettysburg and Coatesville.

Besides affording a crossing for sections of Lancaster and York counties which now rely upon an irregular ferry, sponsors of the bridge testified it would create a new direct route between New York, Trenton, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

A concrete and steel bridge would be erected by the York Furnace bridge company, of Lancaster, between York Furnace, York county, and York Furnace, Lancaster county.

Toll schedules would be similar to those of the Columbia-Wrightsville bridge, with fees of 25 cents for passenger cars and truck fees ranging from 40 cents to $2.

Situated midway between the Columbia bridge and the Holtwood power dam, witnesses testified, the proposed bridge would divert traffic from Lancaster and York over less travelled roads in southern Lancaster county.

Buying Barbara

By Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: The law firm of Quentin, Lodely & Cane is about to crash because it has entrusted the fortune of young Farrell Armitage to a crook, and must make it good. It is Cane, the former office boy, who protested the action; the two "gentleman" partners who brought it off. Quentin lies dying; Cane has ordered Lodely out of his apartment. Cane takes his little daughter, Leila, and goes to call upon Mrs. Quentin. Mrs. Lodely is also there.

Chapter 3

A SHOT IS HEARD

Mrs. Quentin rose, circumspectly "I wonder if it would be very unkind of me to slip into the house by the rose-walk? Then I could be finding out if Lionel is able to see him."

"Run along," agreed Mrs. Lodely. "I'll just say a few words to Cane; that'll give you time. And my regards to your husband and I hope—"

But Mrs. Quentin was gone, fleeing through the beautiful garden. Mrs. Lodely's relief at not having to frame a suitable message to a dying man made her almost her old boisterous self as she stepped out into the drive and began to shout conversation.

"Afternoon, Mr. Cane! Goin' up to see Mr. Quentin? I'm afraid he's a good bit weaker today. His wife's with him just now. Well, Leila—" as the dark-eyed little thing twisted and spun on her father's hand—"when are you comin' to play with Mark and Babs again?"

"She'd like to see little Miss Barbara now, if she's anywhere about. And if Mrs. Quentin agrees, of course."

"'Fraid Babs isn't home. As a matter of fact, she's stayin' over at our place for a bit." Mrs. Lodely, embarrassed as always by the man's smirking deference, launched into superfluous explanations. "Seemed the best plan, with things as they are here; though Babs is such a quiet little soul, she wouldn't have been in the way, exactly. But then Mark's taken such a fancy to her, that's a blessing too; they spend hours together. Leila must come along and play with them one day soon."

"Very kind of you, I'm sure, Mrs. Lodely. Leila would like it. Wouldn't you, Leila?"

"There comes our Annie," said Leila pirouetting. "Isn't her face red!"

Both adults turned and Mr. Cane, elaborately excusing himself, retraced a few steps and took a telegram from the hand of the girl who came sheepishly up the drive.

Pompous creature! thought Mrs. Lodely, irritatedly watching the junior partner as he opened and read the telegram. Leila had recaptured his disengaged hand and was hanging upon it in a manner Mrs. Lodely considered "common."

"Ow, daddy! You're squeedging me! Ow!"

The child wriggled free, her face puckered between laughter and tears. Her father looked in her direction but Mrs. Lodely had the impression that he neither saw nor heard her. He folded up the telegram and thrust it into a pocket, then almost immediately took it out to put it carefully away in a pocket-book which he produced for the purpose.

"More bad news?" enquired Mrs. Lodely. She laughed senselessly. "I shouldn't have thought we'd any of us any more to lose!"

"Oh, no bad news, no!" returned Mr. Cane. "A trivial business matter." He spoke so absently that Mrs. Lodely waited, attentive for once. But no further information was offered. Mr. Cane's neat smirk slid into place again and his everyday voice uttered a commonplace about the weather.

Mrs. Lodely's mind, slow with years of well-being, relinquished its curiosity. A trivial business matter. Nothin' to do with her.

Nevertheless, after she had taken leave of them, after Leila and the little servant had romped past her on their way out of the gates, she looked back. She remembered afterwards that Mr. Cane, dark against the golden autumn, had taken the telegram from his pocket-book and was reading it once more.

She took her way up the hill and presently came within sight of her home.

In this four-square box of a house had passed all the years of her married life. This afternoon, because she was soon to lose it, she stood for a moment, looking at it; and, for the first time, saw.

Judith Lodely demanded that things have no nonsense about them; be no more than she could see or touch. Nevertheless, she was a woman who did not feel at ease without a certain display of comfort; ample food, though she herself ate little, huge fires, though she never felt the cold, numerous servants though she really enjoyed the hearty informality that waits on itself. Day by day, now, her life was being emptied of these things and leaving her emotionally face to face with her husband, her crippled son and her self.

From thought of eight-year-old Mark she fled, as she had fled since the day of his accident. And thought of herself—detached, honest thought—was impossible to her; she had never in her life attempted it. But thought of her husband came more easily, though in blind-alley fashion.

Without his horses and his dogs, what could he do? She tried to imagine him enduring even one day on the tiny income that remained to them, but the constructive effort was too much for her. Besides, they planned to go abroad and imagination broke down before life in a country that was not England.

She began to cry loudly exasperatedly, like a child. She hurried into her house, and flung herself from room to room.

She had come to the open window of the morning-room and as she stood before it, the sound of the children's voices drifted in. Mark's was thin with petulance, Barbara's unusually round and vibrant for a child of six. Her honey-gold curls bobbed into view as she darted into the lawn in pursuit of a rolling ball. Before it had been retrieved, Mrs. Lodely saw her husband come from behind the shrubs that sheltered Mark's spinal carriage and stoop to speak to the beautiful child on the grass.

Then Sam Lodely went determinedly across the lawn, down a path sentinelled with golden-rod, and shut himself into a distant summer-house. Little Barbara Quentin, looking gravely after him, nodded to herself as though she conned over a lesson.

The sound of the shot came almost immediately. Mrs. Lodely climbed out of the window and began to run, shouting his name. But even her fumbling and baffled mind expected no answer.

Suddenly, affairs take quite a different turn, tomorrow.

BRIDGE FOREMAN TO LOSE JOB

York—York county commissioners have advised A. H. P. Sechrist, foreman of the bridge repair crew, that his services will no longer be required after January 1, 1933. The post pays $1,800 a year. It is not certain as to whether or not the commissioners will name another to the place, as it is possible that with the limited amount of repair work in sight another system may be used in handling the work. If the job is permanently abolished it will mean a saving of $1,800 to the taxpayers of the county.

COMPARE SCHOOL COSTS

Pennsylvania's annual public education bill is well below the national average, according to Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction.

Comparing state and national public school costs for the peak year of 1930, he finds Pennsylvania's school bill was 2.72 per cent of the estimated state income for that year, and the same figure for the United States was 2.97 per cent. Pennsylvania public schools cost $184,000,000 that year.

"Every effort is being made to keep Pennsylvania school costs within ability of districts to pay and still maintain a minimum program for al schools within the state."

Odds and Ends

In addition to verifying the suspicion that Navy's youthful gridders are about two strikes behind any time they start against Army, the recent service clash brought out some nice repartee. "Nice landing, soldier," cracked Bill Clark, middie back, as he brought down Pick Vidal, army speed ball, early in the game. "O. K., sailor," was the retort. "Wait until you go up next time and we'll see what kind of a three-point landing you can make."

There is nothing accidental about the mellow, golden voice of a British sport broadcaster. There is an assistant whose sole responsibility lies in keeping a flagon filled with rare port wine. . . . Connecticut has a stringent statute against prize fighting within its borders; also a state athletic commission to see that boxing is properly regulated.

Benny Friedman, hero of countless college and professional football bouts, had to take over the management of the Brooklyn Dodgers to learn about the razzberry at first hand. Flatbush fans gave the former All-America star both barrels because he played only a few minutes in one of the closing games. . . . Everything was lovely in the P. G. A., according to the best available information, until it was suggested our Ryder cup players travel to England second class.

POLICIES SHOW INCREASE

The state workmen's insurance fund issued 366 new policies during November. This is an increase of 103 policies above the number issued in November, 1931. It represents an advance premium of $20,723.48 actually paid into the fund at the time the policies were issued. This advance premium of $20,723.48 is $12,315,37 more than the amount paid into the fund on account of new policies issued during November, 1931.

Hornsby Thinks Cards Will Win League Pennant

St. Louis (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the player-manager who has been shoved around the National league quite a bit in his 18 seasons of big time baseball, believes his new-old teammates—the Cardinals—will be out in front again in the 1933 race.

"I can't see how anybody can lick the Redbirds," panted Rogers, pausing in one of the strenuous workouts he takes five days a week and which he intends to keep up until time to go south in the spring.

Medicine ball, stall bars, pulleys, rowing machine and 10 laps of an indoor track are helping the Cards' star second sacker of other years to shed the 10 or 15 pounds he doesn't need.

"I'm not figuring on any trouble from the Cubs," the Bruins' late manager continued. "Last season their pitchers carried them, and they won't be as strong as they were last year.

"I pick Pittsburgh to finish second to the Cardinals. The Waner boys will be as good as ever, and Vaughn at short and Piet at second ought to be better."

The Cubs will face the toughest opposition of any cub, he asserts because "all the teams try harder against the pennant winners."

KILL 40 DEER

Farmers killed only forty deer during November, as a protection to farm property, the game commission announced today. This is encouraging, when it is considered that in November, 1931, they were forced to kill 184, and in November, 1930, they killed 135. Damage by deer during the month was principally to winter wheat, with minor damage to corn, young fruit trees, apples and cabbage.

PATROLMEN TRAVEL FAR

In the first ten months of 1932, state highway patrolmen traveled 6,570,540 miles in the performance of their duty. Of the total mileage, 341,272 miles were made on foot. Motorcycles and other state-owned motor equipment was used in covering 4,465,501 miles.

Marrying Parson To Leave Elkton

Elkton, Md., Dec. 14 (AP).—The Rev. Edward M. Minor, retired Baptist minister known as the "marrying parson" of Elkton, today began moving his furniture from his home here following altercation with three men who had purchased his house and ordered him to vacate.

Mr. Minor said he was moving to Baltimore but did not give any further details of his plans or whether he would appeal a decision of the circuit court denying him possession of the house.

His decision to leave Elkton was made early today.

BANDITS GET 4 TO 8 YEARS FOR BETHLEHEM HOLD-UP

Easton, Dec. 14 (AP).—Edward Kosack, 18, of Allentown, and Ignatius Genuisz, 17, of Cleveland, Ohio, two of the three young bandits who herded customers and employes of the Personal Finance company, Bethlehem, into a corner and escaped with $600, were sentenced Monday to serve from four to eight years in the county jail by President Judge Russell C. Stewart, as criminal court term got under way.

The third, who police say was the ringleader, is at large but is under indictment. Kosack and Geniusz pleaded guilty.

The two boys were apprehended in Cleveland after being traced through an automobile used in the hold-up.

MUSSOLINI OUSTS TURATI FROM FACIST COUNCIL

Rome, Dec. 14 (AP).—By a decree of Premier Mussolini, Augusto Turati, former secreatry of the Fascist party, has been dropped from the grand council membership.

He remains, however, a deputy and a lieutenant general in the militia, but it is possible that he also will have to relinquish these honors. His recent suspension from the Fascist party was attributed to letters of a scandalous nature officials said he wrote.

Read The Bible With Us Daily

Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days.

Give a portion to seven, and also to eight; for thou knowest not what evil shall be upon the earth.

If the clouds be full of rain, they empty themselves upon the earth: and if the tree fall toward the south, or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be.

He that observeth the wind shall not sow; and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap.

As thou knowest not what is the way of the spirit, nor how the bones do grow in the womb of her that is with child: even so thou knowest not the works of God who maketh all.

In the morning sow they seed, and in the eventing withhold not thine hand: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good.

Truly the light is sweet, and a pleasant thing it is for the eyes to behold the sun:

But if a man live many years, and rejoice in them all; yet let him remember the days of the darkness; for they shall be many. All that cometh is vanity.

Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.

Therefore remove sorrow from thy heart, and put away evil from thy flesh: for childhood and youth are vanity.

Ecclesiastes 11.

IOWA GROWS TALL BOYS, AS WELL AS TALL CORN

Topeka, Kan. (AP)—Iowa produces tall basketball players as well as the tall corn Iowans like to sing about.

One of the former is Car Boldra, of Hamburg, Iowa, whose six feet and seven inches permit him to drop the ball into the basket without much stretching.

Coach George Gardner, of Washburn college, is trying to develop Boldra, tallest of his freshman recruits, into a center for his team.

Instructions that a bottle of chloroform be put in her hands before closing her coffin were left in her will by Marianne Mason, of Vincent Square Mansions, South Wales.

THE BUDGET; HOOVER PLANS TO BALANCE, SPEND

Chief Executive Informs Congress $350,000 Of New Taxes Necessary.

Washington (AP)—The nation, again in search of a balanced federal budget, will have to pay $355,000,000 of new taxes to obtain that balance, President Hoover informed congress.

Only one new tax, the president suggests, will be needed for that purpose—a general uniform sales tax of 2¼ per cent on all items except food.

Sales Tax Previously Beaten

The general sales tax was defeated in congress at the last session by an uprising which took members from both parties away from plans of their leaders. The tax has been variously proposed by both parties and has received additional recommendation from many sources since the last attempt to effect it.

Passage of the tax, Secretary of the Treasury Mills has suggested, would make impossible the elimination of a number of "the unsatisfactory and relatively unproductive" excise taxes now in force. Secretary Mills emphasizes that the sales tax would be imposed at the point of manufacture, avoiding the "inexitable pyramiding" of the tax imposed at the point of retail sale.

Would Cut Half Billion

The proposed administration budget calls for reductions of approximately $580,000,000 for the 1933-34 budget, or a total of $4,218,808,344. The president estimates that without the new tax and continuation of the gasoline tax the public debt will be increased by $307,000,000. It will be increased by $1,146,478,307 in the fiscal year ended June, 1933, the president estimates.

Principal savings proposed in the new budget are approximately $500,000,000 in construction items, $55,000,000 in salary cuts, and $80,000,000 in veterans' aid. These and other savings are partly offset by extra expenses to give the net reduction of $581,923,635.

Considerable opposition is expected to develop to reduction in veterans' benefits. Veterans' organizations are on record for payment of the bonus, which would add some $2,000,000,000 to expenditures, to say nothing of accepting reductions.

The president's proposals are generally held to be extremely tentative in the minds of many congressmen, and vigorous battle is expected before conclusive determination of the new year's appropriations.

The net public debt, which was $19,225,000,000 at the end of the 1932 fiscal year, takes the lion's share of the budget, it getting $1,259,070,321 in principal and interest. Without new taxation, the debt may reach about $21,000,000,000 at the end of the 1934 fiscal year.

The post office comes in for a large appropriation of $694,508,491. This sum, however, is not raised by taxation since postal receipts are expected to total $627,000,000. The army and navy get $585,558,760.

The president expected actual amounts payable from the treasury will total $3,790,425,200, the difference between this amount and that appropriated being accounted for largely by postal receipts. The decline in expenditures by the treasury from the 1933 fiscal year will be $478,463,200, the president estimates.

THE APPLE VENDOR

The apple man upon the corner worries me a lot.
I wonder if he sells enough to pay his rent or not;
I wonder if he lives alone, or has he children small,
And just how many apples he must sell to feed them all.

It's no concern of mine, of course; I've never learned his name,
I don't know where he goes to, nor from whence the fellow came,
And yet I never see him on the corner with his box
But I wonder how he stands it in those worn-out shoes and socks.

I wonder as I pass him what misfortune cut him down
And left him selling apples on some corner of the town;
And if his wife is grateful for the little that he gives,
And what he does on Sunday and just where it is he lives.

I wonder who his friends are, and is he what he seems,
Or a man of high ambitions in the wreckage of his dreams?
And has he wasted chances or done everything he could?
And a thousand other questions which I wish I understood.

IT'S GREAT SPORT---ANYWHERE!

Near-zero weather didn't keep these Chicago youngsters indoors—not by a long shot. Like boys in every section where heavy snow has fallen, they "piled on" and coasted down the nearest hill. (Associated Press Photo)

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE COURAGE OF LOVE

I WAS impressed with what Stevenson once said of "the magnanimous courage of love" that it endured the knowledge of a friend's faults and unworthiness "without change."

He was speaking of this quality in Thoreau,—cold, matter of fact, yet sincere Thoreau. The world's healthy heart, however, must have something more. It must have something to give beyond loyalty, understanding and intellectual appreciation. It must contribute something that savors of flesh and blood, of universal feeling, of human sympathy.

That which is most precious about us is an accumulation of life, distilled experience, and beautiful suffering of soul. The longer we live the more we crave higher atmosphere, a higher elevation from which we may gain a wider horizon, a rebirth of vision.

Social solidity, however, by which love is enlarged and made more abundant, requires no separation from human beings, but a more intimate contact, thus to test and prove this courage, so necessary to the growth and enlargement of the human heart and its life in the world.

We depend upon others for the richness that keeps re-creating us into livable human beings. And I might say—lovable human beings.

If we have no pity and concern for the lowliest and meanest of human beings, we cannot partake of the glory that is an inheritance of the greatest. I like to think of this courage of love as the missing link in the process of re-birth of the whole man or woman.

We cannot get very far through a scramble of materialism, so long as we neglect this courage of love for which the broken heart of the world cries!

Happiness. Can it come from mistrust, envy and selfish desire for gain? Why is it that the world cannot live in peace, contentment and cooperation? Does it take sword and cannon to enforce the Golden Rule of Christ? The courage of love is more potent than any courage of the battlefield, with its aftermath of death and tears and hate.

There is a universal appeal for peace in the entire world today that calls for a courage of love to dictate its terms!

SANTA and the MAGIC DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

SYNOPSIS: A cruel witch is burned by Inga and Pinocchio, two of Toyland's dolls, after they had been helped by a woods fairy who disguised them as foxes. As the witch burns, nearby rocks turned into people who had also been under the witch's spell. Inga has a magic gold mirror.

Chapter IX

THE MAGIC BASKET

All the people and dolls and woods animals that Inga and Pinocchia had freed clustered about them and thanked them, and there was much merrymaking.

"Now we can go back to Toyland with you," shouted the dolls. There were tin soldiers, lady dolls, red-leather dogs and little black monkeys that Santa had lost many years before.

"Oh, Sant will be so glad to see you," said Inga, clapping her hands. "First I must get my mirror out of the cave. So they waited until the smoke had cleared out of the passage and then Inga and Pinocchio and some knights went in together. There wasn't a trace of the witch left.

Inga found her mirror, and then they went into the witch's big room.

"Now, what shall I do?" asked Inga, holding up the mirror. And the mirror showed a picture of a basket.

"What do you suppose that means?" said Pinocchio.

"Don't you remember? That little squirrel told us about the basket that is never empty. It must be in here," said Inga.

So the whole company looked and looked, and finally they found a little brown basket in a dark corner.

"This must be it," cried Inga. "Let's see what's in it. I wish I had a cunning little coach with six tiny, white horses to pull me back to Toyland."

She put her hand into the basket and pulled out a little gold coach no bigger than a walnut and six little horses no bigger than bumble-bees. But when she set them on the ground they suddenly became as big as they should be to serve a doll.

"Goody, goody," she cried. "It really is a magic basket. I'm going to take it back to Toyland, and I'll take the magic bottle of water back to the woods fairy, but I guess we can keep the little gold mirror until we find the princess to whom it belonged when the witch took it."

"Why don't we get help for all these other people who have to go home?" suggested Pinocchio.

"That's a fine idea," said Inga, so she put her hand into the basket dozens of times, each time wishing for another little horse. And each time out came a horse no bigger than a bumble-bee, and each time the magic horse grew into just the right size for some person in the crowd—little ones for the dolls and big ones for the knights. And, of course, the woods animals didn't need any.

Then they all started out from the witch's mountain to go home. Half way through the woods the whole company stopped because there stood the little woods fairy smiling because the two dolls had come back safely.

Pinocchio hopped out of the doll's carriage and with a big sweeping bow returned the little water bottle she had lent them.

"Without your help we would not have been successful," she said. "Thank you so much." And then they rode on.

At last they saw the roofs of Toyland, and at the crossing of the roads the whole company stopped. The dolls bade goodby to the rest, because, you see, no one but toys are permitted in the fairyland where Santa works.

Then Pinocchio and Inga and the dolls hurried on to find Santa.

PAINT AND "SILENCERS" MAKE TAME GEESE DECOYS

Amarillo, Tex. (AP)—Lloyd Liston, camp manager on a ranch near Amarillo, found the goose hunting season upon him without any decoys. Catching the tame geese about the camp, he painted their backs, necks and heads black, with a splash of white on their throats, and staked them in a field.

When the wild geese swooped down the first time, the decoys began squawking and frightened the wild birds away. Liston, not to be denied, took pieces of string and tied the bills of the tame geese. The flight decoyed in again and Liston killed two.

Negroes are more numerous in Georgia than in any other state.

PAINTED ROADS AID IN SAFETY

Rural Schools To Be Protected By Paint Cross-walks Near Buildings.

The Pennsylvania department of highways began working on the painting of crosswalks on the surfaces of improved state highways opposite rural school buildings. The purpose of this innovation, which is to afford safer crossing for pupils, will be advanced by cooperation promised Secretary Samuel L. Lewis by the department of public instruction in the encouragement of use of these walks.

Rural pupils, who are required to walk on the highway in going to and from school, usually are instructed to walk facing traffic. In the absence of cross-walks the children have a tendency to straggle across the highway when they reach the vicinity of the school building, or in starting for home. It is this tendency that the crosswalks are designed to overcome.

The specification for state highway cross-walks call for the painting of two parallel eight-inch lines ten feet apart. The location of the cross-walk will be opposite the school building.

Rural school located on the old highway system already are indicated by signs cautioning the motorist to proceed slowly. The department's new standad for warning signs includes a simplified slow sign for school zones.

BOSTWICK HOPES TO WIN BRITISH GRAND NATIONAL

New York (AP).—With the hope of being the first American owner to ride his own horse to victory in the Grand National, greatest of all steeplechase races, George Herbert (Pete) Bostwick, wealthy young amateur jockey, soon will transfer his turf activities to British tracks.

Bostwick, who rode both on the flat and over the jumps on the American turf this year, has two Grand National prospects—Road Agent and Sir Crispen—in his stable of jumpers. Last winter he was the leading steeplechase rider in England.

The Grand National will be run in March over the famous Aintree course.

Edward B. McLean Is Granted Divorce Decree by Latvian Court

Riga, Latvia, Dec. 14 (By Cable)—Edward B. McLean, owner of the Washington Post and the Cincinnati Enquirer, received an award of divorce from his wife, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, from the district court of Riga, Tuesday.

The publisher was represented here by Charles Henry Huberich, American lawyer practicing in international cases at The Hague and Berlin.

The McLeans, who were married in 1907, have been engaged in court battles for more than two years. In November, 1930, Mrs. McLean brought suit against her husband for back alimony and maintenance, revealing that they had separated in June, 1929. The court awarded her $65,000 in alimony and $7,500 a month for maintenace of herself and their three children.

The publisher then sought a divorce in the Mexican courts, but was enjoined from proceeding. In November, 1931, he established a residence in Riga and brought suit for a divorce, but the action again was enjoined by the District of Columbia supreme court. When he persisted in his suit he was cited for contempt of court. His wife, meanwhile, has sought a separation which would prevent him from marrying again or obtaining the custody of the children.

Last spring Mrs. McLean figured in the trial and conviction of Gaston B. Means for swindling her out of $104,000 to recover the baby of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

INVESTIGATE FIRES

The bureau of fire protection, Pennsylvania state police, reports that during the month of November, seventy-two cases of incendiary and suspicious fires were assigned for investigation. During the same period 878 inspections were made in connection with the removal of fire hazards and 291 approvals issued for the installing of gasoline tanks and pumps. It was reported that the fire loss during November was approximately $2,275,000.

PAY 53 MILLION TO STATE VETS

Former Service Men And Heirs Receive Large Sum From Government.

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Veterans or their heirs now residing in Pennsylvania drew $53,403,861 in various death and disability compensations from the federal government during the fiscal year 1932.

Representative Patman, democrat, Texas, author of a bill to pay the world war veterans bonus, placed in the congressional record Tuesday a table showing disposition of the $812,449,394 which went to the nation's veterans during the year.

In Pennsylvania 21,768 received $11,960,850 in disability compensation. Disability allowances amounting to $4,911,017 were paid to 28,280 veterans.

Death compensation amounting to $2,354,622 was paid the heirs of 6,387 veterans. Emergency officers' retirement pay in the state was $605,192 and went to 332 former officers.

Pensions For 35,638

Military and naval insurance on the policies of 10,809 former service men cost the government $8,842,450. A total of $1,828,858 was paid on the accounts of adjusted service certificates matured by death.

Pensions were paid to 35,638 veterans. They totaled $19,193,780.

Patman inserted a second table designed to show that portion of the bonus would be paid in each state in case settlement were made in full at this time.

It showed that 252,388 veterans held certificates on which the government still owed $172,888,542. It was estimated that 34,696 taxpayers would contribute $187,738,583 toward payment of the bonus if the funds were raised entirely from income tax payments.

NONE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

No one was injured when automobiles driven by Cecil Bean, 19, and Orliss D. Pyles, 23, both of Biglerville R. 1, collided on the Biglerville-Gettysburg road, about one mile south of Biglerville, Monday evening at 7:20 o'clock. Bean was traveling south and Pyles in the opposite direction. The latter told Patrolman H. S. Roberts, of the Gettysburg sub-station, who investigated, that he did not realize his car was so near the center of the highway when the machines sideswiped. Damage amounting to about $50 was done to the two machines.

COURT RULES MRS. JUDD MUST DIE ON GALLOWS

The Arizona supreme court has decreed that Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, trunk slayer, must die Feb. 17, 1933, for the slaying of two women friends. Her appeal for a new trial was denied. She received the news calmly in her cell at Florence, Ariz. If the execution is carried out Mrs. Judd will be hanged at the Arizona state prison.

Hollywood Sights & Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—George Arliss is slipping, surely.

Until lately that 4:30 quitting time clause in his contract has been insisted upon religiously. Now, however, he has stayed overtime twice on one picture despite his watchful valet's importunities.

Once it was because a cigarette-lighter refused to work, and he granted the extra time to complete the scene.

The other time—and thsi was laudable—he discovered a group of old ladies waiting to be seen be him, to be selected for parts. He stayed, insisted upon staying, because if he did not the women would have had to make a special trip the next day.

One Use For Stocks

Colleen Moore has found a use for those gilt-edged stocks and bonds that looked so pretty in days before 1929. Pasted on a screen and neatly shellacked, they serve doubly as decoration and sober reminder for the future.

A medal for a new high in impromptu movie-making should go to the studio which, nearing the finish of a feature, let an important character actress acquire a beautiful tea gown for a scene which required her to walk out in street garb. The reason was that the script hadn't been completed yet—in fact, nobody yet knows how the the story is to end.

Meaning no harm, but it sounded suspiciously as if that 73-year-old Mississippian who wrote me the other day about chances to become a screen writer was citing qualifications when he mentioned he was "poor" and "uneducated."

Nothing Novel

That ten-author story, "A Passage to Paradise," that Paramount is planning to give the screen is really not so novel as it would seem. Many Hollywood stories have that many writers, and more, working on them, and sometimes battling for credit.

Not often, however, occurs what actually did on a recent film, product of several scribes. After the preview they drew lots to decide which would "take the rap" and have his name on it.

Hollywood.—Little portrait of a big girl:

She was christened Katherine Elizabeth Smith when she was born 23 years ago in Greenville, Virginia, but to millions she is "Kate."

She weighs 212 pounds, is five feet nine inches tall, and doesn't bother about her size. "I'm just naturally fat—and why should I worry?" she asks.

On location reecntly for her starring picture, she selected two pieces of pie before ordering any other lunch. She drinks anywhere from two to four "frosted chocolates" a day—with three or four scoops of ice cream, or "just put the whole bucket in," she tells the waitress.

She Likes To Cook

She likes to cook and work around a house. In New York she has a three-room apartment with her mother. In Hollywood she shares the Beverly Hills home of Monte Blue with Ted Collins, her manager, and his wife.

She has only a verbal contract with Collins, who incidentally portrays her manager in Kate's current film, "Moon Song," writeen by Fannie Hurst. Kate gives what one suspects is a "prop" speech of eulogy to Collins' work in furthering her career: "Everything I've done I owe to him," etc. She means it.

She has a big hearty laugh, and a voice as big as it sounds on the radio. She uses one or the other almost constantly. She is a "natural singer," never took a lesson, doesn't play any musical instrument or read music.

A Tennis Player

She plays a good game of tennis, is light on her feet, shoots under 90 in golf—sometimes—and loves to swim.

She is energetic to an extreme. She has played on a stage through enough shows in one day to tire out her orchestra, and still kept on trilling.

She doesn't drink or smoke, and abhors profanity. She had hard-boiled electricians and prop-men weeping over her "Moon Song," and kidded them about it. When she saw it in the projection room, she cried herself.

Her success? "I never think of it. I'd be just as happy without it, I think."

Hollywood—United they stand—if fate is kind—and divided they don't necessarily fall.

The old motto must be revised in some such fashion to apply to Hollywood's screen teams, which come and go in talkies as frequently as they did in silent pictures.

Charles Farrell heeded what he calls "the handwriting on the wall" and left Fox, incidentally halting, for the time at least, his seven-year co-starring career with Janet Gaynor.

In this case Janet was the star of the duo, her box office strength enhanced by appearing with Charlie, but not dependent on such appearance—and Charlie knew it, saw where his career was going, and became a free-lance, to prove to himself what he could do if given the right to select his vehicles as any free lance does.

Janet Goes On

Janet will go on, but Charlie's future hangs in the balance, and he knows it.

In the same way, Marie Dressler has proved her ability to "carry" starring vehicles alone, while her team-mate, Polly Moran, is content with featured roles in the films between their co-starrers.

The one-time team of Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton dissolved with the result that Beery became the star of today white Hatton remained in character roles. In the case of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, the disruption of their team was the beginning of the departure of both from the Hollywood scene as stars.

A New Team

A new one is that of Buster Keaton and Jimmy Durante, although not intended as a permanent teaming project. Durante appeared in support of Keaton in one picture, then had his roles built to equal importance. In such pictures as they odorn together it is a question whether Keaton's established following can outweigh the novelty of the Schnozzle's appeal.

With such standbys as Laurel and Hardy there is no question about the comparative strength of each. Stan Laurel was a comedy star, whiter and director but was losing his draw when burly Oliver Hardy, just another actor, was paired with him. The team was a "natural," and has shone for six years, with increasing luster, Zasu Pitts and Thelma Todd, periodically teamed by Hal Roach, each have good individual followings.

VEILED PROPHET FESTIVAL CREATES WORK FOR 1,000

St. Louis (AP)—Preparations for the Veiled Prophet carnival, annual fall celebration in St. Louis, provided employment for more than 1,000 persons this year. About 100 persons were needed to make costumes, and 200 to help stage the pahade, one of the main features of the festival.

Some 165 band musicians were engaged for the procession, in addition to a concert orchestra for the Veiled Prophet ball, two dance orchestras and an orchestra to play at the supper in honor of the Veiled Prophet's Queen.

URGE CAUTION AGAINST FIRES

Destructive fire visits five public school buildings daily in the United States and this fact serves as caution to teachers and pupils preparing for Christmas entertainments in the schools, Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, said today.

School fires in Pennsylvania average one a week, and there is opportunity for timely instruction on safety measures in the schools as the holiday season approaches.

WINGS BEATEN BY DAIRY FIVE

Russ Tuckey, Former G-Burg Star, Scores Ten Points.

In a listless and poorly played game, the Gettysburg Fleet-Wings dropped their third basketball game in four starts Tuesday night at Harrisburg, when the Harrisburg Dairy quintet rallied in the second half to score a 27-23 decision.

Throughout the first half it looked as though the Wings would score an easy triumph. At the end of the first quarter the locals had their opponents blanked 5-0. In the second quarter the milkmen tallied five points while the Wings added but two points. The low scoring resulted in a 7-5 advantage for Gettysburg at half time.

Russ Tuckey, former Gettysburg college athlete, began to locate the cords in the final half and the home club gradually forged out in front. At the close of the third period the Harrisburg dribblers led, 13-12. Both teams showed better offenses in the final frame, but the Dairy contingent held the upper hand, with Ross and Tuckey stealing the honors.

Lou Reilly was the only Wing able to locate the cords from the field more than once and he landed but two goals. Tuckey and Ross cut the cords for a trio of double-deckers apiece. Each team showed nice form from the foul line, the Wings caging 11 tosses in 14 attempts.

Next Monday the strong professional team of Paterson, New Jersey, will oppose the Wings on the local floor.

ADD DENTAL HYGIENISTS

"Proof that the dental hygienist is becoming a part of Pennsylvania's educational system, is presented by the fact that fifteen additional school districts have recently inaugurated this service for the current year," said Dr. C. J. Hollister, chief of the dental division, state health department.

There are approximately 400 school dstricts employing dental hygienists, and others in cooperation wtih neighboring communities. In addition sixty-two hospitals and institutions in the commonwealth have dental hygienists as a part of their regular staff.

NEW MAP of ADAMS COUNTY AVAILABLE; FIRST in YEARS

Unusual Interesting Information In Commercial Drawing, Showing Many Things Of Interest, Particularly To School Children.

For the first time in years, a new commercial MAP OF ADAMS county has been made by a Washington map concern and a limited number of copies are available for general distribution.

It is a large wall map, showing many things of interest, and ought to be on the wall of every public school building, and would be an item of education for every home.

Cooperating with the Gettysburg public school authorities and other public institutions and individuals eager to obtain a new map of the county, The Gettysburg Times purchased a number of the NEW MAPS in order to guarantee the makers a sale of a sufficient number to justify them in proceeding with the work of making the map.

While The Times can readily use several of these maps for information purposes of its workers, there are a number remaining that will be sold to those desiring them at the actual price paid the map makers for them of $4.50. Of course, additional maps can be made from the original print, if the demand for them exceeds the limited supply on hand, but that will require some time and those available will be given to those first calling for them.

Whether you want to buy a map or not, you will be interested in looking over one of them which has been hung in the office of The Gettysburg Times and you are invited to call and inspect it at your convenience, without any obligation to purchase one of the maps.
